9 RHODE ISLAND PERFORMANCE VENUES AND ORGANIZATIONS TO REQUIRE AUDIENCE VACCINATIONS, MASKS
New COVID-19 Protocols in Effect until Further Notice

WARWICK, RI (August 25, 2021) - The Sandra Feinstein-Gamm Theatre (The Gamm) and 8 other Rhode Island performance venues and organizations have formed a partnership to provide for the safety of their audiences, artists, staff, and volunteers, based on current scientific evidence and best practices around the country.

Organizations included in this effort include Festival Ballet Providence, The Gamm Theatre, Island Moving Company, Providence Performing Arts Center, Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra & Music School, Trinity Repertory Company, United Theatre, Veteran's Memorial Auditorium, and Wilbury Theatre Group.

Effective immediately and until further notice: All patrons attending in-person indoor events must either show proof of full vaccination against COVID-19 (at least 14 days have passed since the final dose), or proof of a negative COVID-19 PCR test taken in the prior 72-hours, or proof of a negative COVID-19 antigen test taken in the prior 6-hours. All patrons regardless of vaccination status must wear masks over their nose and mouth at all times while inside the venue (unless actively eating or drinking). Please visit the websites of the individual venues for any additional restrictions or details, particularly for children not yet eligible for vaccination. Details may be revisited or revised based on CDC guidance and the evolving circumstances of the pandemic.

Performing arts organizations and venues across the area are beginning to resume live, in-person, indoor performances for the first time since March 2020. While great strides have been made in vaccination rates, the recent rise in cases caused by the Delta variant inspired arts, cultural, and entertainment leaders to take these steps.

"Rehearsals for our first show of Season 37 begin next week, and we are beyond excited to experience live theater with our community once again," said Gamm Managing Director Amy Gravell. "In opening our doors to the public, our top priority remains the well-being of our audiences, performers, staff, and volunteers — as well as protecting our industry as a whole. We will be updating our health and safety protocols throughout the season so that everyone can feel as relaxed and safe as possible for what promises to be a very special season."
